PRESIDENTS’ FORUM

Nick Trierweiler

Since taking the gavel so graciously extended to me by Charles Frederick at the Spring CTA meeting, I’ve felt a bit like a landlubber on his first voyage. On a schooner. In uncertain waters. Luckily, the several crises (to which Charles was always referring) have been ably handled by other CTA officers and standing committees. Attending the Texas Archeology Advisory Board (AAB) meetings have been one of my responsibilities (and one which has been thoroughly enjoyable). I have especially appreciated the meticulous preparation and documentation provided to AAB members by Lillie Thompson.

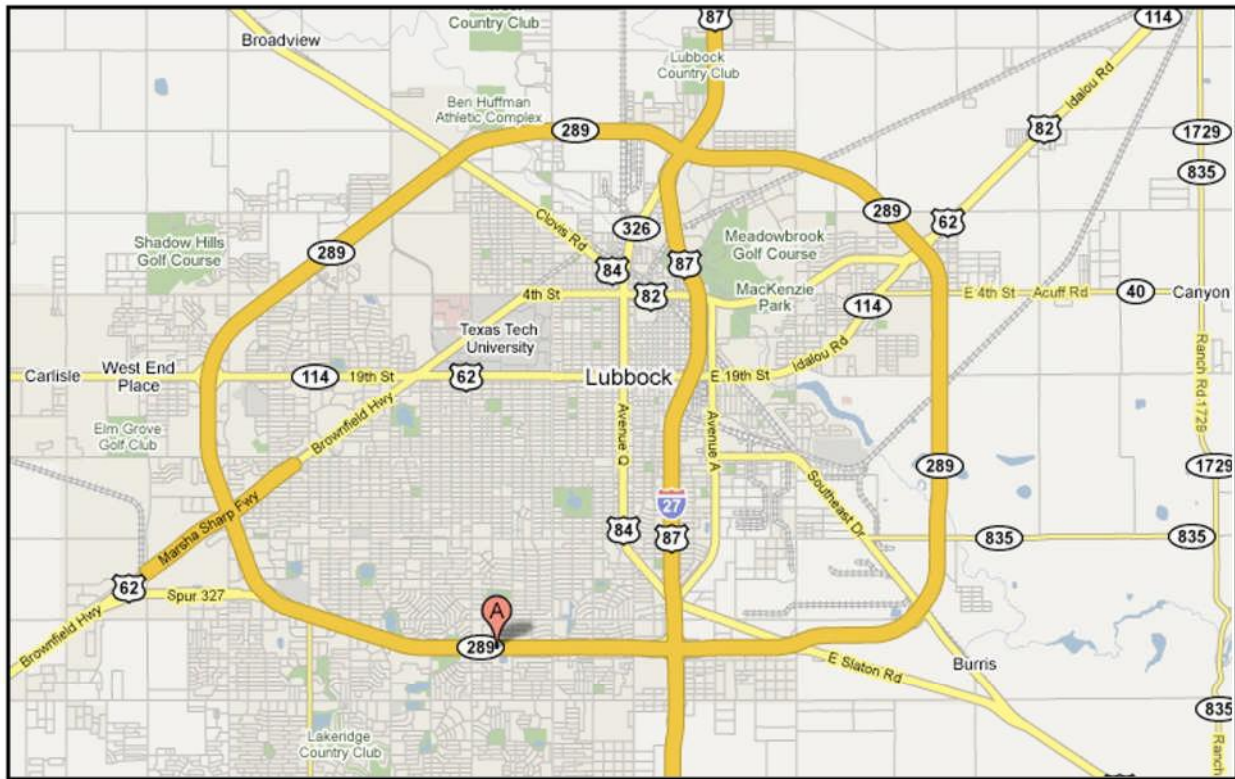

Our IRS Excitement

Now that the dust has settled and it is clear that no one is going to prison for tax evasion (just kidding), I want to extend a sincere THANK YOU to Marie Archambeault and Carolyn Spock for working overtime to re-establish our non-profit status, reclaim our EIN, and convince PayPal® to let our members once again pay dues online. It was a headache that I hope we do not again face.

79th Texas Archeological Society Annual Meeting
Lubbock, Texas
October 24-26, 2008

Holiday Inn Park Plaza
3201 S. Loop 289, Lubbock Texas 79425

The Council of Texas' Fall Meeting will be held on Friday, October 24, at 9:00 a.m. in the Redwood Room

Texas Archeology Month

I'm thinking of getting one of those bumper stickers that Joe Brandon sells on ShovelBums: "Archeologists Don't Dig Dinosaurs". Prehistory seems to be awfully compressed to most folks. How many of us have been excitedly asked to examine a fossil gastropod (or a plain old rock) by someone who has just learned that we're an archeologist. Archeology is a glamorous business (from the outside, at least) and the public has always been hungry for archeology fare. Pop icons like Howard Carter and Indiana Jones have whetted that appetite all the more.

I suppose a better idea is for us to pro-actively educate the public. Like many of you, I've been involved in some outreach activities associated with Texas Archeology Month. And it's been terrifically rewarding. I'm currently working on some sites in San Antonio and my firm has set aside several volunteer days in October and November for Boy Scouts to help in the excavations and earn their Archeology merit badge. I've received dozens of eager inquiries like the following.

*"Dear Dr. Trierweiler,
My name is [---]. I am 12 years old and have been interested in archaeology since I was 4. I wish to be in your program so I can learn more about dinosaurs and fossils. I've been interested in archeology since my uncle from South Dakota sent me prehistoric bones. I've always been fascinated by the various shows on National Geographic and Discovery Channels. When I grow up I would like to become a marine biologist, paleontologist, archaeologist, or veterinarian and I would like to go to Texas A&M."*

I remember feeling the same way when I was 12 (without the A&M part). This kid could well grow up to be a Texas SHPO (or maybe just Oklahoma). Either way, it's our job—as members of CTA—to foster that enthusiasm, to provide kids like him with opportunities, and to provide age-appropriate information that allows them to explain to their own parents the differences between a paleontologist and an archeologist.

We study the past, but the future of archeology is up to each of us.

CTA Archeology Month Grants

In support of outreach and educational activities during Texas Archeology Month, CTA has a standing commitment to provide limited funding to one or more deserving organizations. As a CTA member, I've always nodded my head at the announcement of these awards and have voted to increase the funding level. What I did not realize was that the selection of the awards was a job of the CTA president. OK, not a biggie. However, neither did I realize that there no formal application form, nor are there any criteria for making the awards. In the past, CTA has received a limited number of applications and the process (or lack thereof) has not been too problematic. I think this was probably mostly due to lack of exposure—many organizations simply did not know about the grant program. This year, THC pro-actively advertised the program and we have received more applications than in previous years. As such, we may need to institute a more formal application process for next year. Applications are due by September 30 and will be announced early in October.

At our fall meeting in Lubbock, I'd like to ask the membership explore the need for a standard application form, explicit award criteria, and, perhaps most importantly, an increase in funding above the $900 we currently budget.

Spring 2009 Meeting

One of my first official duties as CTA president was to officially thank the folks at Camp Mabry for their hospitality in hosting our last several spring meetings. Unfortunately, we will not be able to hold our Spring 2009 meetings at the same location. Our bylaws require the Spring meeting to be held in Austin, and I have been working towards finding a comparable venue that is within our budget (i.e., $0). As of press time, we are still officially up in the air, but Dan Prikryl has indicated that the LCRA facilities may be available. We hope that our request for a reservation may be confirmed by the end of October, or shortly thereafter. We'll keep ya'll posted.

OFFICER'S REPORTS

SECRETARY TREASUERER

Marie Archambeault

Happy News from the IRS... an oxymoron ???...
NO! After only 6 months of haggling and name calling, I have convinced the IRS that we exist. Our PayPal and IRS issues are over. Hurray! Now I can return to my regularly scheduled duties...

The IRS situation did highlight the need to separate the Secretary/Treasurer positions, which will require changes to the CTA bylaws. Please see the proposed bylaw changes in the newsletter.

Please also take this time to renew your CTA membership before the Fall meeting on October 24 in Lubbock, TX. To date, only 140 professional members, 6 students, and 47 contractors have paid their 2008 dues! Last year before the Fall 2007 meeting, we had 172 current members! There are still 54 members, 9 students, and 12 contractors who paid fees in 2007 that have not paid in 2008. If you are not sure, please contact me via email (marie.archambeault@utsa.edu) or by phone at (512) 782-5576. Contractors, be sure to periodically check the CTA website. If your company is not listed on the website, your membership is probably out of date.

Remember you can pay online via PayPal through the CTA website (www.counciloftexasarcheologists.org) or by sending a check made out to CTA c/o Marie Archambeault, Texas Military Forces, P.O. Box 5218 (JFTX-EV), Austin, TX 78763. The IRS wants me to remind everyone that donations to CTA are not tax-deductable.

Our accounts are doing well. As of September 15, 2008, the Money Market account is at $8,853.15; our Scholarship Fund contains $7,744.61; and our Checking account is currently at $13,795.98.

NEWSLETTER EDITOR
Mindy Bonine

Since the Spring 2008 meeting I had great plans for increasing the communication tools for the members, including providing gentle reminders to committee members for newsletter content and more frequent updates to the website. However, family circumstances have interrupted my plans, and I ask for a little more patience while I get things in order. Once I have completed the website updates that I know of, I will send out a notice for everyone to check to see if their information is correct. Please stay tuned. As always, if you see an error in either the website or the newsletter, please e-mail me at mbonine@swca.com.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

COLLECTIONS COMMITTEE

Patricia Clabaugh (Chair), Carolyn Spock, Laura Nightengale, Karen Gardner, Melinda Iruegas, and Lou Fullen

The CTA Curation Committee is still planning on distributing the CTA Curation Guidelines at the Fall business meeting. The committee is going to meet on October 3 in Austin to finalize the document. We will have some copies available at the business meeting as well as have a review copy posted online before the Fall meeting.

GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Rachel Feit, Chair

Over the summer I testified in front of a Texas House of Representatives Subcommittee oversight meeting about the status of the transfer of Historic sites from TPWD to THC. The individuals who testified, in addition to myself as a representative of CTA, came from TPWD, "Friends" groups, the THC and the National Park Service. For the most part, all agreed that the transfer was proceeding smoothly and that THC was meeting its obligations and promises to appropriately maintain, improve, promote, and make more accessible the parks that have come under their stewardship. On behalf of some members of the CTA, I raised three issues that had not been formally addressed through any sort of public document or management plan. They are:

1. How the THC intends to conduct review and compliance on its own properties;
2. Whether the THC will become certified as a curatorial facility; and
3. How will the THC manage the natural resources on the properties and whether environmental review for those resources would be implemented as improvements and restoration projects occur.

The THC responded that in July 2008, they put together a draft protocol for the Historic Site's Division consultation process. This draft was revised in September 2008 and will continue to be refined until a final draft is reached. The draft protocol clearly separates the Architectural and Archeology Divisions of the THC from the Historic Sites Division and each project undertaken by the latter will follow the same review process as projects undertaken by other state and federal agencies. The THC has also responded that they are in the process of identifying space for the archeological and historic collections. The curatorial program, managed by the Archeology Division of THC and overseen by a Commission Committee, will ensure that the facilities which hold state collections and the THC's own collections, meet current museum standards pertinent to the care and management of collections. The Curatorial Facility Certification Program will be managed independently of the Historic Sites Division. Finally, though the protocol does not specifically address the last issue, the THC has responded that it intends to fully comply with requirements for other types of resources.

MINUTES

CTA Spring Meeting Camp Mabry, Austin, Texas March 7, 2008 9:30 AM

President Charles Frederick called the meeting to order at 9:30 am.

Announcements

Charles made several announcements including that a short paper symposium on burned rock middens and a TxDOT data collection protocols discussion would immediately follow the business meeting. Additionally, Charles reminded the membership that the CTA social would commence at the end of the day at the Camp Mabry picnic area.

Approval of Minutes from the Fall 2007 Meeting

The first order of business was the approval of the Fall 2007 meeting minutes as published in the Spring 2008 Newsletter. Charles entertained a motion that the minutes be approved; the motion was seconded and passed.

Officers' Reports

President

Charles's report was short. He stated that the biggest issue he faced since the Fall meeting was the scheduling of the Spring meeting. This year's schedules have been relatively busy. We had a choice of having the meeting in early March or late May.

President-Elect

Nick Trierweiler had no report.

Secretary/Treasurer

Marie Archambeault started her report with the basics of asking everyone to update their contact info (especially their email address) and join the Yahoo Groups Listserv. She reported that as of March 5, Membership figures were as follows:

- Members – 101 due paying members (79 members who paid dues in 2007, but not in 2008)

- Student Members – 5 due paying members (9 students who paid dues in 2007, but not in 2008)
- Contractors – 41 contractors (11 contractors who paid dues in 2007, but not in 2008).

She continued reporting on the account figures as of March 5, which were as follows:

- Checking – $14,624.08
- Money Market – $8,837.70
- Scholarship Fund – $7,761.10
- PayPal Account – $3,148.29

Marie also reported that the CD Savings account has been put on hold temporarily pending our tax situation. However, despite the tax situation, she encouraged the membership to approve the increase in grant funds for the Texas Archeology Month event from $600 to $900, which would of course be voted on under new business.

The tax situation is rather cumbersome, but her simple explanation is as follows:

Beginning of January PayPal informed her that limits would be placed on CTA's account because they could not verify our tax-exempt status. They told her to contact the IRS to verify our tax-exempt status. Marie contacted the IRS and was informed that CTA's Employer Identification Number (EIN) was deactivated. CTA must have an EIN in order to have IRS non-profit status as a Section 501(c)(6). When she spoke with the IRS, they could not find our EIN number in their system and suggested that it was likely dropped a long time ago.

Non-profits only file taxes if they take in more than $25,000 in a single tax year. CTA only takes in just under $10,000 a year; therefore, the Secretary/Treasurer has not filed anything since receiving our tax-exempt status in 1988. Apparently, after so many years of "inactivity", the IRS automatically drops your EIN. This could have happened at any time in the last 15 years through no fault of anyone in the organization. The Secretary/Treasurers of the CTA have all abided by the requirements outlined in the letter that was sent to CTA by the IRS in 1988. The laws changed for tax year 2007, meaning that on May 15, 2008 and annually from here on, CTA must file a form 990-N or an e-postcard no matter the amount of our annual income. This indicates that CTA is not the only non-profit organization to have faced the same situation.

Marie has proceeded in the direction that the IRS has sent her. The first action was to reactivate the EIN, which she has been told was successful. Now, she is waiting the 45-60 days for the reestablishment process of our non-profit status.

At this time, there is one major way in which this IRS situation will negatively affect CTA and the accounts. PayPal has placed "limits" on the online account. Basically, this means that CTA cannot withdraw any money from the PayPal account. However, as it does not benefit them to deny receipt of money, PayPal is happily collecting the annual dues. Since January, Marie has spent roughly 80 hours on the IRS situation, which does not include her regular responsibilities of collecting dues or communicating with the membership.

Marie then opened the floor up to the membership to ask questions and/or offer advice. Many in the membership suggested seeking the advice of a CPA and a tax attorney. The issue was raised that Marie's workload is extreme and that she needs help. This subject will be continued under new business.

Newsletter Editor

Mindy Bonine reported that she has published instructions on how to join the Yahoo Group listserve in the newsletter, and she will place very detailed instructions on how to join the Yahoo Groups listserve on the CTA website very soon.

Standing Committee Reports

Auditing

Mark Denton, Chair, reported that the books look great, that they are in order, and we have the cash to do whatever we need to do.

CTA Communications

Mindy Bonine, Chair, reported that the committee is working on developing proactive ideas and is seeking input from the membership. There was a brief discussion on how to get everyone onto the Yahoo Groups listserve. Mindy will be working on other steps to help others sign on. Kevin Miller asked how CTA can use the website as a better communications tool. The committee suggested that for continuity they could take the responsibility of training the officers in how to use website, so the officers could post messages directly on the website.

Contractors List

Erin Watkins, Chair, reminded everyone that the Contractors' List is updated on the 5th of every month. She reported that any strange changes to the website's font sizes or colors have to do with a formatting glitch. Please report any of these changes directly to her and she will make necessary the changes. If she doesn't get back to you within a few days give her a week, she's probably out in the field.

Curation

Carolyn Spock filled in for Pat Clabaugh, Chair. Carolyn reported that the curation committee is making final edits to the curation standards. They want to make solid long term decisions about the curation standards, and not rush the process. As the final draft must be published twice, the committee plans to have a finalized draft available for a special newsletter publication before the Fall 2008 newsletter and then again in the Fall 2008 newsletter.

Governmental Affairs

Rachel Feit, Chair, reported that not much has happened in governmental affairs.

Multicultural Relations

Margaret Howard and Mary Jo Galindo reported on the Native American Scholarship Program for the TAS Field School. They invited Mr. Jesus Reyes, a recipient of the TAS Native American Scholarship in 2003, 2004, 2006, and 2007, to speak about his experiences. Due to the bad weather, Mr. Reyes got a late start and did not arrive to Camp Mabry until after the Multicultural relations committee presented; however, at that time, he was given the floor and reported the following. First, he thanked the membership for the open forum between the two groups, and he thanked all of the agencies that have sponsored the TAS recruiting committee. He told the membership that he was a single father who worked at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA). He reported that he was more at home searching through the linguistic archives. He recently completed his B.A. in Anthropology and History at UTSA and plans to study for a doctorate in Linguistics. He reported that the most rewarding aspect of participating in the TAS field school was that he felt like he and his family had been invited back to Texas.

Nominating

Russell Brownlow, Chair, reported that both Mindy and Marie had agreed to be nominated for reelection for their positions at Newsletter Editor and Secretary/Treasurer, respectively. He continued, reporting, that as discussed earlier, Marie is overwhelmed with the IRS issue and needs immediate assistance. While separating the Secretary/Treasurer positions would require by-law changes, in the interim, Mindy had identified Carole Leezer as a volunteer willing to step in and help Marie, and potentially accept the nomination as Secretary when the by-laws change.

Public Education

David Brown, Chair, announced that there were NO nominations for the Davis Award this year. As such, he suggested that we pass on finding awardees for this year and focus on encouraging nominations for next year. The membership entered into a discussion about why we were not getting nominations. David encouraged self nominations, as well.

Special Committee Reports

Academic Archeology and CRM

Britt Bousman, Chair, was not present and had no report

Archeological Survey Standards

Marriane Marek, Chair, had nothing to report.

Rachel Feit, Ad-hoc Committee Chair for Historical Site Documentation Standards, was tasked at the Fall meeting to investigate Historic site documentation standards. She reported that through a number of email exchanges, the committee determined that it would be good to have something about historic sites in the reporting standards. They don't want anything too specific, but they want some general statements. They are considering some field standards, as well. Currently, they are focusing on survey, as agencies will work out details for testing in a research design. Jonathan Jarvis stated it would level the playing field so everyone is doing the same level of work for the same type of site. The committee will produce a statement, not an enormous document. The committee is asking for agency review and participation, specifically from THC and TxDOT.

History

Doug Boyd, Chair, had nothing to report.

Membership

Becky Shelton is stepping up as co-Chair for the committee.

Agency Reports

Texas Historical Commission (THC)

Mark Denton reported on the recent changes to the THC, specifically, the creation of the Historic Sites Division. Don Williams is the head of the division.

The changes will result in a number of staff changes. This change will also require that THC develop its own curatorial facilities and certified depository. Mark also mentioned that the CTA might want to consider standards for Principal Investigator (PI) rights over research. Currently, sponsors can fire PI's who have started a project with a permit, and then the PI is left with no rights over the work.

State Archaeologist

Pat Mercado-Allinger made an announcement about the Annual Historic Conference that was held in May 2008. She also discussed a number of grant programs including Texas Preservation Trust Fund, Texas Archaeology Month Fair, and Friends Fund for Preservation Fellows. Announcements for the later are expected to come out in September.

Texas Parks and Wildlife

Margaret Howard reported that they have good funding for the building rehabilitation programs and archaeology projects, and reported on open positions.

Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT)

Scott Pletka reminded everyone about the RFP's that were out, and reported that in August some new RFP's would be posted. Scott also discussed the financial picture at TxDOT. He stated that the budget issues are not as bad as first believed. New testing and data recovery projects are expected before the end of the FY08; however, the majority of TxDOT work would be survey. Currently, there is no clear picture on FY09 budget.

Texas Archeological Research Laboratory (TARL)

Jonathan Jarvis announced that TARL would be giving a 25% discount for site forms submitted as an ESRI File; please see Jonathan for more information!

Old Business

As there no news in Old Business, Charles moved on to New Business.

New Business

Newly Proposed Bylaws Changes

The proposed bylaws changes centered on the meeting location for the CTA Spring meeting. After much discussion about the benefits of having the option to change the meeting location, a motion was made to pass the change, the motion was seconded, and the changes were put to a vote. In a very close margin, the Yeas had 38 votes, and the Nays had 14. The motion passed. The bylaw changes stipulated that prior to a location change, the new location must be voted on by a majority during the Fall meeting.

Treatment of Metal Artifacts for Curation

Jim brought the membership into a discussion about the proper treatment for ferrous material. Clell Bond recommended that we should categorize types of artifacts in deciding which artifacts should be kept. Steve Hoyt recommended that whatever method is used, it should be reversible – some of the rust removal sprays you get in the hardware store don't tell you if they are reversible or damaging to the artifact. He then recommended that we check out Texas A&M's Conservation manual online written by Donny Hamilton. Rachel Feit also suggested that we needed to pick what kinds of objects should be kept and what needs to be tossed, rather than preserving everything.

Records Only Curation

Pat Clabaugh brought up the need for a change to the Antiquities Code. Currently, records only collections (sites and archival information that exist solely on paper, but have no associated artifacts) are not required to be curated. They are consequently falling out of the hands of researchers. The Curation Committee recommended that THC needs to deal with this issue.

Proposed 2008 Budget

Mark Denton proposed that we accept the proposed 2008 budget. The motion was passed.

Deactivation of EIN by IRS

Marie further discussed what was required from CTA in order to get the EIN reestablished, and asked for help on whether to get accountants or tax lawyers involved or not.

Nomination of New Officers

Carol Leezer was officially nominated as a committee of one to help Marie with the Secretary/Treasurer responsibilities. Mindy Bonine and Marie Archambeault were reelected as Newspaper Editor and Secretary/Treasurer, respectively. Congratulations to all.

Charles officially handed the gavel and gavel "banger" over to Nick. Membership applauded. On behalf of the officers and the membership, Marie thanked Charles for his hard work and dedicated service to the CTA, and the membership applauded. Nick official entertained a motion to adjourn the meeting, the motion was seconded, and the meeting was adjourned at 11:50 am.

PROPOSED REVISIONS TO BYLAWS

The proposed changes to the bylaws represent the separation of the Secretary and Treasurer offices discussed at the Spring 2008 meeting. The editor has highlighted text to be removed in red, and text to be added in green. These proposed changes will be printed once again in the Spring 2009 newsletter prior to a vote.

Major funding for this program was provided by the Council of Texas Archeologists. Field equipment and supplies were donated by PBS&J, Ecological Communications Corporation, Prewitt & Associates, and Geo-Marine. Thanks to all for your help in making the 2008 TAS Native American scholarship program a success!

TXDOT DRAFT RECORDING AND ANALYSIS PROTOCOLS

Jason Barrett

TxDOT has developed several protocols for the recording and analysis of archeological materials, including chipped stone artifacts, ceramics, and features. Additional protocols will be produced in the future. TxDOT has also developed a protocol for the recordation and interpretation of provenience and integrity. This latter protocol connects the other protocols by providing the context for all materials found during excavation.

The draft versions of these protocols have been sent to TxDOT's consultants and will be available on the CTA website. These will also be presented in the October 3rd roundtable at the Environmental Coordinators Conference at the Doubletree Hotel in Austin. You will note that the protocols are not in their final implementation stage. Our immediate aspirations were to produce a set of documents that clearly described our intentions, but which left room for modification based on responses received from our colleagues. We anticipate that minor to significant revisions will occur to these protocols as the result of your comments and the comments of the Texas archeological community as we move forward.

Essential Background: TxDOT has obligations under the National Historic Preservation Act and the Texas Antiquities Code to consider the effects of its projects on cultural resources, including archeological sites.

In meeting these obligations, TxDOT has conducted or sponsored excavations at many sites throughout the state. Substantial excavations (test- and data recovery-level investigations), for example, have occurred at 60 different projects and over 85 separate sites during the past nine years alone. Despite the extent of TxDOT's work, the results of these efforts have not had as much impact on the understanding of the archeological record as would be hoped. This attenuated impact and other factors motivated TxDOT to reconsider the manner by which it documents excavations.

TxDOT has decided to develop and maintain a database of comparable data resulting from its projects. The creation of this database will serve several functions. The standardization of observations and terms will facilitate inter-site comparisons, allowing researchers to more readily address regional research questions. In so doing, this database should facilitate the evaluation of important questions of history and prehistory. TxDOT, by nature of the projects that it develops, usually investigates a limited number of archeological sites in any area. As a consequence, research done for TxDOT projects can require extensive examination of existing literature and collections to provide a context for the site-focused excavations that occur within the project area. The database should provide some of that context as data from more sites are contributed to it. Thus, the public should see a greater return on dollars spent on archeology.

The use of these protocols by TxDOT consultants should also provide greater predictability during development and evaluation of their research designs. Much good work has already been done on TxDOT's behalf by consultants. While these protocols attempt to standardize and routinize the capture and documentation of specific data, these efforts should not be regarded as punitive or remedial. The issue is how to make that good work more accessible for future research. We feel these efforts will make a substantial contribution to Texas archeology and thoroughly appreciate your interest and enthusiasm in helping to make this project an unqualified success.

LOOKING FOR SITES IN NORTHEAST TEXAS

Steve Ahr

Dear Colleagues:

I am looking to investigate several localities in northeast Texas, northeast of Leon County, as part of my dissertation research on the geology and pedology of the Texas sandy mantle. If anyone is planning to conduct or is currently conducting site testing and/or mitigation projects in this region, I would appreciate the opportunity to visit your site to collect samples for soil characterization and geochemical analysis. In return, I would provide a detailed field morphological description of the analyzed soil pit and any relevant geoarcheological interpretations. Please contact Steve Ahr for details: steve\_ahr@baylor.edu.

Dear Marie and Members of the Council of Texas Archeologists,

It is with great appreciation that we receive your annual contribution of $2,000 for Texas Beyond History. Your contribution comes at a particular opportune time, as we face considerable funding challenges and uncertainties in the months ahead. We want you to know that these funds will go toward the development of exciting new content for the fourth regional project: "Native and Early Historic Peoples of the Texas Coastal Prairies and Marshes."

It means a great deal to have this continued expression of support from the CTA. We look forward to continued collaboration in the future.

Cheers to all,

Dear Ms. Archambeault,

Thank you for your generous gift of $500.00 to support The Archaeological Conservancy's Preservation Fund. Your contribution will provide us with the essential resources to continue to identify, acquire, stabilize, and preserve the most significant archaeological sites in the United States.

In addition to the 365 sites we've protected in the last 28 years, we are always working on the acquisition and permanent preservation of many more. Right now, we are working on the preservation of a Late Mississippian Mound site in Mississippi and a Pueblo Period site in Arizona. And our regional directors are always working closely with landowners to secure the permanent protection of many other endangered sites throughout the country.

Again, thank you for your support and generosity. We truly appreciate your continuing commitment to preserving America's rich cultural heritage. It is because of members like you that we are able to continue protecting our nation's cultural treasures.

Sincerely,

Mark Michel
President
